11th NATIONAL HARM REDUCTION CONFERENCE
SAN DIEGO
NOV 3–6 2016

harm reduction COALITION
Welcome Harm Reduction Family and Friends!

The National Harm Reduction Conference is the most widely attended harm reduction gathering in the nation, and the only conference of its kind in the United States. Every two years, over a thousand leaders, decision makers, frontline service providers, community activists, people who use drugs, and their allies come together to learn and build together.

This year’s conference comes at a time when harm reduction, health care, and drug policy reform have entered a dynamic and critical phase. The prescription opioid and heroin overdose epidemic has captured the nation’s attention, with renewed focus on transmission of HIV and viral hepatitis among people who inject drugs. These trends are reshaping the policy and public health landscapes, making harm reduction more urgent and relevant than ever before.

As harm reductionists, our work is to level the playing field for people who use drugs. For the past 25 years, we’ve been raging against the machine, but we’ve also learned how to dismantle it from the inside. And as a result, we can celebrate the partial lifting of the ban on federal support for syringe access programs. People in the White House are using phrases we’ve used for years and advocating alongside us for sane drug policies and expansion of public health approaches to substance use.

Yet, in spite of all we’ve accomplished, we are seeing unprecedented rates of people dying from fatal opioid overdoses and people being ripped from their communities and incarcerated for drug-related crimes.

The US is at a pivotal moment in time: more than four decades after the civil rights movement, America is once again faced with re-examining its regressive criminal justice policies and practices. In spite of what has been deemed a “kinder, gentler” response to the drug war, we know that not everyone has benefitted from this shift. If you’re poor or live in a rural area, chances are you may not have access to expanded treatment and support services the way someone living in a region of the country with more resources and political will to change “the system.” If you’re homeless and living in an urban center, chances are you’ll be swept up in urban camp raids and left without the means to care for yourself in the way most people take for granted. If you’re a black or brown person, it pretty much doesn’t matter where you live: chances are you will serve a disproportionately long sentence if found to be guilty of a drug-related crime.

The National Harm Reduction Conference is a time for renewal and rejuvenation, none of which can happen without the generous support of our sponsors or without you, our comrades. What better place, what better time, and who better than us to determine how to continue dismantling the system that keeps the people we love in harm’s way? So glad you are here with us—let’s plan the future, together.

In Solidarity,

Monique Tula
Executive Director

LUNCHEON SYMPOSIUM: ADDRESSING HEPATITIS C: LEAVE NO ONE BEHIND (LUNCH PROVIDED)
Hepatitis C is a silent epidemic killing thousands of Americans every year. Approximately 3.5 million Americans live with chronic hepatitis C but only about half of them know it. People who inject drugs have some of the highest rates of infection in the country. Prevention and treatment are needed to reduce the impact of hepatitis C among substance users. The good news is that chronic hepatitis C can be cured. Cure means the virus is not detected in the blood when measured three months after treatment is completed. A simple blood test is the first step to take action. Join us for a discussion on raising the alarm around this silent epidemic among substance users. Event sponsored by Gilead Sciences, Inc.

CLOSING PLENARY

1st Annual Imani P. Woods Award Ceremony
Join us for the fifth Harm Reduction Film Festival, which includes three days of shorts and feature-length films. Films shown are from all over the world, with a special focus on North America. This year’s films come from Canada, Argentina, Columbia, Indonesia, Crimea, Australia, and Slovakia, in addition to the US. A wealth of diverse topics are covered, from the ethics of mephedrone, human rights, daily life of people who use drugs around the world, supervised injection, heroin-assisted therapy, harm reduction at festivals, alternatives ways of smoking tobacco, a United Nations General Assembly Special Session (UNGASS), and even an animated film about the drug laws we enforce on ourselves shot from the perspective of a visiting alien. Some filmmakers will be speaking in conjunction with the screenings. Please check the main schedule.

Fight HIV, Not Drug Users!
Fight HIV, not Drug Users is about severe rights violations committed against people who use drugs in Manipur. In this movie, people who use drugs talk honestly and bravely about how police round them up in street raids, and publicize their personal data in newspapers, how they extort all the money they have, how they beat them up or shoot them, and how local clubs and the mob carry out reprisals against them and their houses.

In some parts of Manipur, 92% of injecting drug-users are coinfected with HIV and hepatitis C. The HIV prevalence rate among people who use drugs in Manipur is one of the highest in the world. LENGTH: 25 MINUTES

Trip to Earth, Report on How Human Beings Deal with Drugs

Trip to Earth, Report on How Human Beings Deal With Drugs is an animation about an alien studying the planet Earth and his research on how humans deal with some inanimate objects, called DRUGS. He comes to Argentina because he was informed that there the humans have a particular way of facing the issue and of trying to solve it with laws, social and health problems (which is not unlike most places).

Empowering the People

Empowering The People shows how drug users are often marginalized from formal health care delivery institutions and from making their own health decisions. But, with community-based organizations at the forefront of providing naloxone, drug users can access it; a miracle drug, that does more than save people’s lives. This video features Carl Hart, Louise Vincent, Robert Childs and Helen, a mother whose son is addicted to heroin.

LEADing a new direction

This video features the work of Santa Fe, New Mexico’s Law Enforcement Assisted Diversion program. Santa Fe’s LEAD program has improved relationships between law enforcement and drug users. LEAD programs challenge police to consider multidisciplinary and comprehensive approaches to providing assistance and stability rather than incarceration to communities of people who use drugs.

Transcend the hate

In 2016, the North Carolina (NC) General Assembly passed legislation in the dark of the night legalizing outright discrimination against people who are transgender. The undemocratic process through which the policy was enacted in addition to its multiple provisions that restrict workers’ rights to challenge unlawful termination due to race or sex have reversed decades of progress made in NC and now threatens to do so in other states. Members of a harm reduction support group for people who are trans discuss the political ramifications of HB2 and solutions for creating an environment in which people recognize that discrimination is always wrong.

A Broad Consensus? It’s Time for Change—Support. Don’t Punish
In A Broad Consensus? It’s Time for Change, one can see how at the largest UN drugs summit (UNGASS 2016, New York) governments failed again to keep up with the “global consensus” of the elimination of drugs through punishment and repression. The video sheds light on member states’ positions on topics such as decriminalization, death penalty, harm reduction, and more...

Drugs: Common Problems, Common Solutions in Slovakia
Drugs: Common Problems, Common Solutions in Slovakia is a film about Slovakia where only a small proportion of injecting drug users have access to low-threshold services. As an indication, according to the most recent (2008) prevalence data, there are between 8,200 and 33,500 people who use drugs heavily, mostly using methamphetamine and heroin. In 2013, there were 2,252 clients registered with local harm-reduction NGOs. In Slovakia, the availability of syringe exchange programs is very limited – there are two outreach programs in Bratislava, the capital, with one NGO operating in each of three towns (Trnava, Nitra, Sereď) and one providing services in the city of Košice. The central region of the country remains without a single syringe exchange program. Slovakia needs to find a common solution to guarantee harm reduction for all in need—argues a local harm reduction provider, Odyseus, in a video produced jointly with Drugreporter.

Dr. Zee – The Man Who Discovered Mephedrone

Dr. Zee—The Man Who Discovered Mephedrone is a film about Mephedrone (or as chemists call it, 4-methylmethcathinone) which is a stimulant drug. It was first synthesised in 1929, but did not become known to the wider public until it was rediscovered in 2003 by a man who calls himself Dr. Zee. Is he the ‘Crazy Chemist’ depicted in government-led anti-drug campaigns, using young people as lab rats for testing his substances? Why is he experimenting with unknown substances? Was it his intention to sell these drugs to millions of young people? Does he feel guilty for the harms caused by mephedrone, the deaths, the suffering? The Drugreporter video team met him in New Zealand in March this year, and took the opportunity to carry out an exclusive interview with him and ask these questions. Our aim was neither to judge nor to justify him—just to show the man behind the discovery of mephedrone.

Wasted

Wasted is a film on the revolution in addiction research that offers hope to people whose lives and families are Wasted by addiction.

Abandominium

Abandominium is an observational ethnographic film that chronicles the lives of five heroin injectors who live together in an abandoned apartment building on the west side of Chicago. The film follows Steve and Pam, the heroin-dependent married couple who run the house, and their heroin-using housemates—Ida, John, and Spider—as they forge the best possible existence in the face of tall odds against them. This film explores and dissects an essential property of street-based heroin user culture: antagonistic communalism.

DYING A SLOW DEATH: Inside Indonesia’s Drug War

DYING A SLOW DEATH: Inside Indonesia’s Drug War is a short documentary film produced by the Indonesian Drug Users Network (PKNI) and the Drugreporter, documenting the first-hand impacts of the drug war as experienced by the community itself. The documentary features testimony and interviews with people who use drugs, methadone patients, academics, and religious leaders, and was filmed and conceived by local drug user community activists.
The UNGASS on Drugs: Reform Aborted
The UNGASS on Drugs: Reform Aborted is a short video report on the United Nations General Assembly Special Session on Drugs, held in New York 2016. After a long gestation, the UN drug reform experiment suffered a miscarriage. It seems the UN is not the catalyst of change but its mirror. Reformers can learn many lessons—but can also be proud of their achievements.
