

Using Fentanyl?

Fentanyl is a strong synthetic opioid that is sold as is and can also be in other drugs, like black tar heroin. The same harm reduction practices that decrease your OD risk when using heroin, other opioids, and other drugs will work with fentanyl and its analogues, too!

- Go slow
- Use less
- Smoke/snort instead of inject
- Test your product when possible
- If using alone, double down on other harm reduction strategies
- Have someone check on you
- When using in a group, stagger use so someone is always alert
- Know the signs of an overdose
- Carry Narcan/naloxone or make sure at least one person in your group has it at all times

Using Fentanyl?

Fentanyl is a strong synthetic opioid that is sold as is and can also be in other drugs, like black tar heroin. The same harm reduction practices that decrease your OD risk when using heroin, other opioids, and other drugs will work with fentanyl and its analogues, too!

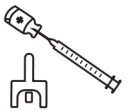

- Go slow
- Use less
- Smoke/snort instead of inject
- Test your product when possible
- If using alone, double down on other harm reduction strategies
- Have someone check on you
- When using in a group, stagger use so someone is always alert
- Know the signs of an overdose
- Carry Narcan/naloxone or make sure at least one person in your group has it at all times

Using Fentanyl?

Fentanyl is a strong synthetic opioid that is sold as is and can also be in other drugs, like black tar heroin. The same harm reduction practices that decrease your OD risk when using heroin, other opioids, and other drugs will work with fentanyl and its analogues, too!

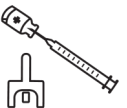

- Go slow
- Use less
- Smoke/snort instead of inject
- Test your product when possible
- If using alone, double down on other harm reduction strategies
- Have someone check on you
- When using in a group, stagger use so someone is always alert
- Know the signs of an overdose
- Carry Narcan/naloxone or make sure at least one person in your group has it at all times

Using Fentanyl?

Fentanyl is a strong synthetic opioid that is sold as is and can also be in other drugs, like black tar heroin. The same harm reduction practices that decrease your OD risk when using heroin, other opioids, and other drugs will work with fentanyl and its analogues, too!

- Go slow
- Use less
- Smoke/snort instead of inject
- Test your product when possible
- If using alone, double down on other harm reduction strategies
- Have someone check on you
- When using in a group, stagger use so someone is always alert
- Know the signs of an overdose
- Carry Narcan/naloxone or make sure at least one person in your group has it at all times

The Drug Overdose Prevention & Education (DOPE) Project is a program of the Harm Reduction Coalition and is funded by the San Francisco Department of Public Health to coordinate San Francisco's response to drug overdose and ensure access to Narcan/naloxone for people who use drugs and their community.

Please contact us with any questions or to find out where/how to get naloxone in San Francisco

628-225-2801

marshall@harmreduction.org

The Drug Overdose Prevention & Education (DOPE) Project is a program of the Harm Reduction Coalition and is funded by the San Francisco Department of Public Health to coordinate San Francisco's response to drug overdose and ensure access to Narcan/naloxone for people who use drugs and their community.

Please contact us with any questions or to find out where/how to get naloxone in San Francisco

628-225-2801

marshall@harmreduction.org

The Drug Overdose Prevention & Education (DOPE) Project is a program of the Harm Reduction Coalition and is funded by the San Francisco Department of Public Health to coordinate San Francisco's response to drug overdose and ensure access to Narcan/naloxone for people who use drugs and their community.

Please contact us with any questions or to find out where/how to get naloxone in San Francisco

628-225-2801

marshall@harmreduction.org

The Drug Overdose Prevention & Education (DOPE) Project is a program of the Harm Reduction Coalition and is funded by the San Francisco Department of Public Health to coordinate San Francisco's response to drug overdose and ensure access to Narcan/naloxone for people who use drugs and their community.

Please contact us with any questions or to find out where/how to get naloxone in San Francisco

628-225-2801

marshall@harmreduction.org